CONGRESS WORKING
TO REDUCE TARIFFWILL HAVE EVERYTHING READY FOR THE SPECIAL SESSION
CALLED IN MARCH.

PRESENT MANY BILLS

Meanwhile Great Activity is Being Shown in Various Matters Pertaining to Prospective Legislation.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Democratic revision of the tariff actually got under way today when the house ways and means committee began hearings which will be the basis of the new tariff bill of the next congress to repeal the Payne-Aldrich law in accordance with the party's pledges for "immediate downward revision" and for tariff for revenue only.

The hearing was on schedule A, the chemical schedule. The committee plans to go down through the list taking a new schedule every other day until all have been covered.

Most of the democratic majority of the present ways and means committee will go into the next congress, which is to convene in extra session probably between March 15 and early April.

When the tariff hearings are ended, the committee will devote themselves to legislative session to the formulation of tentative tariff legislation which they hope to have ready by March 15, if not earlier.

The concrete result of their deliberations, the new tariff rates from "acids to zinc," the expansion of the free list, and so on, will be formally passed upon at a caucus of the representatives of the new house soon after the opening of the extra session.

This caucus will determine whether the new tariff legislation shall be in the form of a single measure or in separate bills, schedule by schedule, along the lines of the tariff procedure of the last session when chemicals, wool, cotton, iron and steel, and free list items went through both houses, but met presidential veto.

Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee and his associates are inclined to favor the same course as that of last session, by that procedure it is urged by its advocates "log rolling" or trading on rates on various articles could be avoided.

The chemical schedule is one of three of four that command the greatest interest. Democratic committee men claim revision along the lines embodied in the chemical bill of last year would save American consumers seventeen million dollars, by reducing the prices of all chemicals and at the same time increasing the revenue to the government.

The plan of the committee is to levy low rates of duty upon non-competitive articles produced in this country, especially the chemicals used in textile industries and chemicals and drugs used for medicine. Further inquiry into the so-called "concentration of money and credit" controlled the money banking and currency committee with the resumption today of the money trust investigation. Before the holiday adjournment the committee concluded most of its investigation of stock exchanges and clearing houses leaving only minor details under the record. The concentration of money and credit, the principle branch of the money trust investigation will precede the committee's efforts and Chairman Pujos expects to have a report before the house by February 1st.

Financiers and business men from New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago are under subpoena to appear before the committee in a series of hearings begun today, comptroller of the currency, Lawrence O. Murray, was scheduled as one of the first witnesses. Thomas Fortune Ryan will also appear this week.

Senator Bristow, of Kansas, presented to the senate today a proposal for an industrial commission of seven members to take over the work of the bureau of corporations, exercise control over all persons, firms or corporations doing an interstate business with gross receipts of more than five million dollars per year.

Explaining the bill to the senate he said that it proposed to create a body similar to the interstate commerce commission to have the same power over industrial concerns that the latter exercises over transportation companies.

"The purpose is to protect the people with some degree of promptness from the extortionate practices of powerful corporations without destroying the business they represent."

He declared that the proposed commission and the powers given to it would not "interfere with big business operations if such operations are along honest and creditable lines. He declared that the Standard Oil and tobacco trusts cases had demonstrated that the courts were ineffective for the supervision of big business.

Senator Bristow's bill would give to the industrial commission power to investigate the financial situation, business operations and management of all big interstate concerns. The commission would in no way be similar to the commission on industrial relations recently authorized by congress to investigate general conditions in the industrial world.

To Repeat Concert: The choir of the First Presbyterian church will probably repeat the concert given last evening a week from next Sunday evening, January 19. Because of the stormy weather few people had an opportunity to hear the fine musical program given.

MEXICAN CONDITIONS
REPORTED AS BETTERReports to State Department Most Encouraging According to Statement.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 6.—Conditions in Mexico generally and especially in the border states are reported better than they have been for some time. These are no fresh outbreaks and the American embassy in Mexico City the news indicates dispersal of the rebel bands, operating in the country to the south and east of the capital. In the mining country and especially at Cananea where large American interests are located the suppression of the strike is declared to have restored quiet and security.

PHILADELPHIA GRAFT
PROSECUTION BEGUNDefendants in Trial Charged With Conspiracy to Defraud the City—Case Result of Scandal.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—The defendants in the so-called graft scandal that were largely responsible for the election of a reform mayor in Philadelphia a year ago and the ousting of the old political combine, were arraigned for trial today on charges of conspiracy to defraud the city. The principal defendants are ex-director of Public Safety Henry Clay, ex-city architect Carl B. Zillenziger and John R. Wiggins, head of a contracting firm.

The case grew out of exposures of alleged contract scandals before the Catlin commission, before the mayoralty primary election more than a year ago, following which ex-director Clay and his alleged co-conspirators were indicted. It is looked upon as one of the most important prosecutions conducted here in years, and the Commonwealth has been at work for months in building up its case against the accused men.

The concrete result of their deliberations, the new tariff rates from "acids to zinc," the expansion of the free list, and so on, will be formally passed upon at a caucus of the representatives of the new house soon after the opening of the extra session.

MORE CONCESSIONS
GRANTED TO TURKS
BY BALKAN ALLIESMeanwhile Turkey Blames Powers
For Their Attitude in Aiding Its Enemies.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, January 6.—At the peace conference today between the delegates of the Balkan states and Turkey, the Turkish envoys offered to make further concessions which were considered by the Balkan plenipotentiaries sufficient to prevent the threatened rupture of the negotiations.

The Turkish delegates are indignant over the attitude of the European powers toward the Ottoman empire. They remark that when the Turks are defeated nothing is done to moderate their enemies' pretensions, but when they are victorious they are always prevented by the powers from reaping the fruits of their efforts.

An important advance has been made by the Turks toward meeting the demands of the Balkan allies according to the opinion expressed by the representatives of Bulgaria in regard to the new Ottoman proposals as to the future frontier between Bulgaria and Turkey.

The Ottoman delegates were expected to present a definite project during today's sitting of the peace conference suggesting that the western frontier of Turkey should follow the course of the rivers Maritza and Tundje. The Turks to retain the fortress of Adrianople, but to abandon Kirk-Kisseh.

The peace negotiations will be resumed, but the date of the next meeting was not fixed at the conclusion of today's sitting. The official report of the meeting says:

"Having examined the new proposals the Turkish delegates make reply to the declaration of the allies. The latter declared the work of the conference suspended."

The Ottoman delegates presented a long statement in which they spoke of Turkey's earnest desire to reach a settlement, but offered no important concessions. They remained adamant upon the subject of Adrianople. The delegates of the allies then adjourned to consider the Turkish offer and upon returning presented a counter statement adding that as the Turks had not met their terms they must ask an adjournment without date. The delegates subsequently emphasized the statement that the negotiations had not been broken off.

SUPREME COURT HAS MADE ITS DECISIONHolds Patten and Others for Trial in Cotton Corner Case—Other Important Rulings Are Made.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Jan. 6.—By upholding certain disputed counts against James A. Patten, and others, charged with a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, in running a so-called cotton corner, the supreme court today set the case against the men to trial in the lower court.

Indicted in 1910.
Patten, Eugene G. Seales, Frank B. Hayne and William P. Brown were indicted in New York on charges of conspiring on January 1, 1910, to "corner" cotton, by extensive buying on the New York cotton exchange as a result of which the price would be enhanced and ultimately bring arbitrary and excessive prices.

Not Sufficient.
The court also held that the plan advanced by the Union Pacific attorneys of disposing of the entire stock holdings of the Union Pacific Railroad company on the Southern Pacific company by transfer to the stockholders of the Union Pacific company, would not so effectively end the Union Pacific merger as to comply with its dissolution decree.

Divorce Question.
Notice by publication to a person absent from a state of a divorce suit against him or her is sufficient to give to the state jurisdiction over the absent party if the state be the matrimonial domicile of the man and wife, according to a written decision today of the supreme court.

FIGHT FOR SPEAKER
TO BE MERRY ONEPossibility That Conservative May Be Named by the Legislature
After All.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—The possibility of the refusal of some of the republican assemblymen to attend the party caucus Tuesday night to nominate a speaker is reported in political quarters to exist. The withdrawal of a sufficient number of members would leave the caucus nominee in such a plight, it is believed, as to make the election of other than a republican possible. It is reported that an effort is being made to have the supporters of Thomas J. Mahon of Elmdale and Ray T. Nye of Superior refuse to participate in the caucus deliberations.

Asked as to the possibility of such action occurring, L. L. Johnson, another speakership candidate, said he believed there was "nothing in the rumor."

The republicans have a bare majority in the assembly, and a canvass of this majority shows that it is doubtful whether there is a sufficient number of progressives to force through a program without the aid of the remaining republicans or some progressive democratic support.

NINETEEN THOUSAND MARK REACHED TODAY

But Four Thousand Needed Before Contracts For Improving Y. M. C. A. Building Can Be Let.

According to present indications the public spirited citizens of Janesville will soon be open to congratulations from anyone visiting our local Y. M. C. A. building. The modern up-to-date building and equipment which has been so earnestly sought by those interested in the project is undoubtedly an assured success thus far, and will no doubt appeal to those who have not given their pledges that the $4,000 yet needed will be given very soon. There is now a total of $19,000 pledged toward the project, including the $2,000 pledged by one hundred and fifty-four young men.

Several contractors are ready to place their bids when the conditions of the subscriptions are met, which conditions require that the amount necessary to complete the whole proposition free of debt be subscribed before such contracts are let. To complete this building for young men with an equipment so attractive, should be an inducement to every citizen to go on record for all he can do in a financial way, even at a sacrifice, if necessary. Many represented on the subscription list now are doing this very thing. Our city needs this, our homes need it, and the young men have shown by their pledges that they need it and intend to use it. No delay should result from the withholding of support from those who can possibly give.

One special feature alone should appeal to merchants, manufacturers, professional men, and all citizens. The enterprise will be a strong booster for our city. We understand that efforts will be made at once to interest all small cities and towns in close proximity to Janesville with the fact that all persons will be welcome to make this building a place to stop when waiting for trains. Provisions will be made to care for this feature. Urgent invitations will be given to those availing themselves of this feature to invite their friends to enjoy the same courtesy. This alone can be made an advertisement to our city well worthy of consideration.

REVIEW EDITION NOW ENTIRELY EXHAUSTED

Demand for Copies Exceeded The Number Printed—Two and a Half Tons of Paper Used In Publication.

With the extra supply of copies of the review and chronological edition of the Gazette for Dec. '31 exhausted some days ago, the calls are still coming for them at the office. An extra run above the number ordered in advance was made, sufficient it was thought to fill the late demand, but several hundred additional copies would have been necessary to care for the requests which have come since Tuesday. Over two and one-half tons of paper was used in the review edition and over two months consumed in its preparation. It is safe to say that two-thirds of the copies printed are preserved as a reference by those who have them.

DEMETIC GUARREL LEADS TO CALLING IN POLICEMAN

George Osterman was making trouble at home last night or at least was thought to be contributing more than his share with the result that the police were called to take charge of him. He pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Elfield on a charge of intoxication this morning and was sentenced to ten days' imprisonment in the county jail. This sentence was suspended, however, on his agreement to leave town within an hour's time. Osterman asked permission to return home and get his belongings, which permission was granted on his promise not to start new trouble. James Sullivan and William Grimes were each sent to jail for five days on pleading guilty to being drunk. John Hancock could not pay a fine of $4 and costs and went to jail for eight days.

UNUSUAL CONDITIONS FOUND IN SCHOOLS

Report of State Board of Public Affairs Shows Extreme Laxity in Financial Affairs in Some Districts.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Two schools in one township were held in private homes. In both cases the schools were attended by one family only. In each case the school board paid to the owner of the house: $12 a month rent for room to school his own children.

$5 a month for fuel for heating this room in his own house. $5 a month janitor fee for cleaning this same room. In addition the family received $10 a month for boarding the teacher. In one case the school room was in an attic but clean and tidy. The teacher used it as a sleeping room. But one pupil was enrolled. In the other case two pupils were enrolled. The school room was in a log house which was absolutely filthy, dark, dingy, unkempt and hardly fit for stable purposes. The room was used for school purposes was used by the family as if no school was there. The school officers desired to transport these children nine miles to the village school or pay their board while attending the school in town. The state gives $50 a year state aid to any district which thus transports its children to a graded school of at least two rooms.

Such conditions were discovered by the State Board of Public Affairs in its investigation into rural schools of Wisconsin published today. This was an unbiased, independent investigation conducted under the supervision of the Board of Public Affairs by the Training school for Public Service conducted by the Bureau of Municipal Research of New York. It points the way for legislation needed to improve school conditions in this state.

"In the books" continues the report "of a village with a 4 room school enrolling 50 pupils the auditor found the following expenditures:

1 striking bag, $8.00
3 pairs boxing gloves, $21.00
1 wrestling mat, $14.00.

When the secretary was asked to explain the reason for these purchases he said they were for the gymnasium. Previous investigation has brought out the fact that during January, 1912, a professional wrestler had come to town and had given several exhibitions in the school gymnasium. The secretary of the school board, the principal of the school and the druggist who sold these supplies to the school were pupils of this wrestler and frequently engaged in wrestling matches with the professional. The mat for the school was bought at the $140 wrestling mat were bought at the time these men were having their bouts, and while it cannot be proven, it does seem evident that it was bought to avoid the skinned elbows resulting from not having a large mat upon which to wrestle. The school district is greatly in debt at this very time, having paid $389.17 in interest during the year.

These conditions are only typical not only of the financial but of the educational condition of rural schools. Lax methods of spending money are evident everywhere. Board members contract with themselves. Census figures are inaccurate and some communities are getting thousands of dollars more than they deserve, and others are consequently deprived of money justly due them. Ventilation of school rooms is poor. School buildings and grounds are not properly cared for. Teachers are appointed because of their political connection. State supervision of rural schools is very defective. County supervision, except in a few cases, is woefully deficient.

A good part of the report is devoted to pointing out especially good points in the rural schools of the state. It shows that in spite of defects in organization, lack of authority and inadequacy of clerical help on the part of county superintendents, many instances have been found where a strong personality has found ways of effectively directing school boards, supervising teachers, starting instruction in useful arts and helping teachers to be leaders in community life. "One striking illustration of such leadership," the report continues, "is furnished by Oconto County, which differs not so much in the kind as in the number of forward steps taken."

At the end of the report are a series of legislative and administrative remedies. Among the remedies are county boards of education to be elected at the general school election; appointment of the county superintendent by the county board; better pay for county superintendents; higher qualifications and higher pay for teachers; effective supervision, more equitable distribution of rural funds and a new classification of school schools.

TO HOLD A DOUBLE FUNERAL TUESDAY

Services to be Held at Center for Mr. And Mrs. Gundlock, Woman's Death Having Occurred Shortly After Husband's Demise.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Footville, Jan. 6.—Within two days after the death of her husband, Mrs. Christ Gundlock, an aged resident of the town of Center, passed away yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sophia Albright, a few miles from this village. Mr. Gundlock's death occurred on Friday morning, and that of his wife on Sunday. Advanced years and a gripe caused the demise of both husband and wife. Mrs. Sophia Louise Gundlock was eighty-two years, eleven months and eighteen days old, and was born in Germany. She and her husband had been residents of the town of Center. Besides the daughter with whom she lived, she is survived by three other daughters and three sons. They are: Mrs. Mary Newman of Milwaukee; Mrs. Reka Corbin of the town of Janesville; Mrs. Louise Cator of Footville; Fred Gundlock of Center, August of Beloit and William Gundlock of Janesville.

It was originally planned that the funeral of Mr. Gundlock should be held Sunday afternoon, but arrangements have been made to have a double funeral on Tuesday afternoon. Services will be held from the Albright home at one o'clock and from the German Lutheran church in the town of Center at two o'clock. The bodies will be buried in the Center cemetery.

Port Shop Shots by Dan McCarty

Tom Jones, who has been looking after the interests of Ad Wolgast, thinks Jess Willard has a pretty bright future ahead of him, and is trying to induce the cowboy heavyweight to place himself under Jones' management. Tom has offered to take Jess to California and match him with some of the big ones but the offer has not yet been accepted.

Manager McGraw of the New York Giants has confided to his most intimate friends that he aspires to win three pennants in a row and thus get a place in that select circle which now boasts just five National league managers—"Baby" Anson, Frank Selee, Fred Clarke, Ned Hanlon and Frank Chance. These five are the only ones of the big ones in the league ever to win three pennants in a row. McGraw bids fair to finish next season at the top and thus realize his ambition.

Maybe Joe Tinker is hoping he'll be a failure as manager of the Cincinnati Reds in 1913. It has become a common saying around baseball stamping grounds that a man who fails at Cincinnati is just about sure of winning an overwhelming success elsewhere. Clark Griffith, John Gabel, Mike Donlin, Orvie Overall, Cy Seymour, Heine Steinfield, and Hans Lobert are classic examples. Joe Tinker has a job at Cincinnati which no man should envy.

Eugene Corri, considered the premier referee of Europe, is to judge the fight between Jim Driscoll and Owen Moran for the featherweight championship of England, which takes place at the National Sporting club of London.

BELOIT BEATEN BY FAST MAROON FIVE

Chicago University Basketball Team Defeated Beloit College on Own Floor 28 to 13.

In one of the fastest games of basketball ever played, the Line city has played with a conference team, the Beloit team was defeated by the Chicago University Maroons on Saturday night by a score of 28 to 13. The game was somewhat rough even for the intercollegiate style of game. Chicago was strong on the defense, but they had worthy opponents, and needed their ever watchful eye. Captain Emmett Murphy, of this city, starred for Beloit, and caged two goals early in the game, but was carefully guarded afterward. Turner, the other Beloit forward, is a fast man, and played a wonderful game. Beloit fought for all they got, and Chicago did also. Norgren the plugging halfback on the varsity football team last fall, played the best game for Chicago. His dribbling was a feature and his five baskets was what won the game for Chicago. Van Lone did well to hold his men as low as he did, as Norgren is considered one of the best forwards in the conference. Van Ripper will have a task in holding him, but it is conceded he can do it. Des Jardien, the all-western football center, played a great game at center. His height was a decided advantage, and his accurate shots proved a feature. The game was most interesting. The line-up was as follows: Chicago—Norgren, L. Vruwink and Stevenson, r.f. Des Jardien, c. Bell and Kennedy l.g. Beloit—Murphy (Capt.), r.f. Turner and Ward, l.f. Prindle and Holmes, c. Van Lone, r.g. Wilfred, l.g. Baskets—Norgren (5), Vruwink (1), Stevenson (1), Des Jardien (4), Kennedy (1), Murphy (2), Holmes (1), Wilfred (2). Free Throws—Bell (4), Murphy (2). Time of halves 20 minutes. Referee—Davies of Milwaukee.

Tennessee Control a Puzzle.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 6.—With the assembling of the Tennessee legislature today much talk is heard of a bitter contest for the control of that body and possible combinations of parties and factions to promote or defeat legislation, including action on the prohibition laws which constitute one of the big political issues in the state. The "regular" democrats, however, believe that they have the situation thoroughly in hand and unless some of their members desert and join the Fusion forces, which is not considered at all probable, the democratic leaders expect to control the course of legislation and also the election of the two United States senators who are to be elected for the short and long term respectively.

OLD RESIDENT OF EVANSVILLE DEAD

Henry Monshau, for Over Half Century Resident of Cut-off City, Died Suddenly Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Jan. 6.—Henry Monshau, for over half a century a resident of this city, and for forty or fifty years a prominent business man here, died suddenly today at his home in this city.

Mr. Monshau was about seventy-four years of age, and had made his home in Evansville since 1869. For many years he had conducted a harness and repair shop in this city. His wife, two daughters, and three sons, survive him. Taxation the Issue in Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 6.—The Vermont legislature reassembled today for its winter session. The calendar of business is not heavy and the lawmakers expect to be able to end the session by the end of the month. The principal bills to receive attention are those to give women a limited municipal suffrage, to change the date of the state election from September to November, and to readjust the methods of taxation of intangible property.

Proposed amendments to the primary election laws and a revival of anti-Japanese legislation promise to

LOOKING FORWARD.

"Favorable conditions are in the majority as the new year opens. Easily first in this category are basic crop results, which tend to exert a steadily widening influence as they pass into human and animal consumption. To an extent probably never before exceeded, the crops have been gathered, hoisted or marketed in good condition, and cheaper food, which lies at the base of all industrial effort, seems likely to be one beneficial feature. As to future crops, it may be said that the winter wheat crop starts out with a better condition than with a smaller area than a year ago. Orders now on the books of manufacturers and wholesalers are sufficient to keep most lines busy until spring arrives. In lines where bookings run beyond the spring and up to the fall, as in iron and steel and some lines of textiles, raw material prices abroad as well as at home render sharp changes in manufacturing costs unlikely. Active employment for all able or willing to work is not the least important foundation for future good consumptive demand. Conservation bred of past years of strain has made for cautious buying, and nowhere are burdensome stocks pressing for sale, while activity in trade abroad, with high prices prevailing, precludes dumping of surplus foreign goods coincident with the confidently expected revision of the tariff. It seems to be the consensus that this latter operation should be pushed rapidly to a conclusion in order that the period of uncertainty shall be limited, and the calling of an extra session for early in April will be in line with this desire. Pending action on this matter, business operations will probably continue to be governed by conservatism, but not by pessimism. In this connection the firmness of the money market will have, if anything, a favorable effect by tending to limit speculation and to modify what might otherwise tend to be oversanguine reaching out for new fields of endeavor. A volume of business ample enough to allow of fair margins of profit seems within sight for the first half of this year, and beyond this conservative financial, commercial and manufacturing interests will hesitate to operate extensively until something definite can be known of the ultimate crop results of 1913."

This hopeful outlook is from Bradstreet's annual report, and while conservative in tone, is most encouraging. While the democratic party is noted for its free trade tendencies, the new president understands that his popular majority does not warrant any radical measures, and tariff reform is ceasing to be a bug-bear. The opening of the year is full of promise, and with good crops the year should be good for all kinds of business.

THE COTTON INDUSTRY.

The Department of Commerce and Labor recently issued a bulletin giving a general summary of the supply and distribution of cotton in the United States, for the year ending August 31, 1912. It is an interesting summary because it brings out the importance of one of our great industries.

The total production for the year was 17,437,583 bales, of which amount our manufacturers used 5,400,000 bales, or about 30 per cent, and we exported 10,871,758 bales, leaving a balance of something over one million bales on hand.

The state of Massachusetts is the largest home consumer, and the two Carolinas are the next in line. The United Kingdom is our heaviest foreign customer, with Germany and France next in order.

The crop of last year was the largest in the history of the country, but cotton is no longer king, as the corn crop now leads in value.

THE BLIND GIRL.

One of the most difficult problems which confronts people who are interested in the education of the blind, is to find some vocation for the girls, which will aid them to earn their own living and insure a life of independence. There are many things which the blind boy can be taught to do, along practical lines, but the girl is always a problem, and every new avenue presented is hailed as a blessing. The following news item from an exchange, is of interest in this connection:

"Blind girls have demonstrated ability to act as telephone operators. Miss Minford Holt, secretary of the New York Association for the Blind, announces that a systematic plan for educating blind girls to be telephone operators will be pursued by the society, experiment having proved their capability. Seven blind girls are now employed as telephone operators in New York and six in Baltimore. At Baltimore the Young Men's Christian Association central with two hundred lines and eight pay stations has been successfully run by a blind girl for one year."

COST OF LIVING FORTY YEARS AGO.

In these days of well-known universal complaint at the high cost of living, it is interesting to read the letter of an optimist to one of the daily papers claiming that the price of living in 1872, a number of years after the Civil war, was greater than it is now. "I have lived some seventy years and my memory is good. I quote you some figures taken from 1872, and apply them to the same articles of today. On the same day in 1872 I paid as follows: For three tons of coal, $48; one barrel of flour, $18.25; two bushels of potatoes, $5.50. In the same month I paid as follows: For one pair of shoes, $5.50; one felt hat, $4; one suit of not all-wool clothes, $35; one quarter (front) of beef, 150 pounds, at 14 cents, $21; one pig, 175 pounds, at 12 cents, $21; total, $156.25. The same cost today: Three tons of coal, $18; one barrel of flour, $6.25; two bushels of potatoes, $1.60; same quantity of front quarter of beef, at 12 cents, $18; same quantity of pork, at 9 cents, $15.75; one pair of better shoes, $4; one hat of better quality, $2.25; one suit of better quality and make, $24; total, $89.85. In favor of today, $66.40."

The prices quoted can be verified by plenty of people who were living in 1872, and money was more difficult to secure than it is today. Our wants, however, did not include many luxuries, and they have much to do with the high cost of living.

Every merchant in Janesville can deliver goods in the fifty mile zone, cheaper than the Chicago mail order houses. All that he needs to do is to let the people know what he has to sell, and quote the price delivered. That's the only way to meet mail order competition, and if the merchant will combine in this kind of a campaign they can do it. The consumer always pays the freight or express from a mail order house, and he will continue to pay for the stamps used in government transportation. The Gazette covers the fifty mile zone, and through its columns you can talk to the people every day.

The efforts of secure bail for the thirty-two men recently convicted of conspiracy in the dynamite plot, may be successful, but it is extremely doubtful as to the outcome of a new trial. The judge who sentenced them was extremely lenient, and they may not fare as well, if the case is reopened. Federal courts are very much alike, and a verdict is not likely to be set aside. Public sentiment is not in sympathy with the kind of lawlessness of which the men were convicted, and some sort of punishment will be demanded.

President Taft delivered his own political obituary at a dinner at the Waldorf, in New York, Saturday evening, in the presence of one thousand guests representing prominent republicans, from all parts of the country. It is carefully written and worthy of careful perusal, as it will form the keynote of the rehabilitation of the party. The erratic colonel, who was largely responsible for the mix-up, is appraised for what he is worth, and political unrest is thoughtfully analyzed. The president is not a pessimist, and while celebrating his own wake, he believes that the republican party is still very much alive.

Chief McWeeney of Chicago is very much exercised because of the general violation of the anti-spit ordinance, and has issued strict orders to arrest all offenders. In the meantime murders and automobile hold-ups are of daily occurrence, and the city is deluged with a wave of crime, unparalleled in its history. More attention to thugs and less to innocent expectorators would contribute to the safety of the people. Chicago started the new year wrong, and is reaping the whirlwind.

Colonel Roosevelt took occasion to denounce the supreme court of Idaho, during the campaign, and three editors in the state are now locked up for giving the libel publicity. This action has very much outraged the colonel and he is bitter in denunciation. The court ruled that his elections could not be recognized on the official ballot. The same conditions prevailed in California except that the Taft men were thrown out. It makes all the difference in the world whose ox is gored.

Southern Wisconsin is fortunate in escaping the three great storm waves which swept over the country last week. The South and East suffered severely. We will doubtless catch it later in the season, but nothing can deprive us of the summer climate enjoyed up to the first of the year. Golf weather during the holiday season is a southern luxury.

MUST APPOINT SUCCESSOR TO LATE JUDGE DONOVAN

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Governor McGovern is expected to make an appointment in a few days to fill the vacancy in the Dane county municipal court caused by the death of Judge Anthony Donovan. So much work is pending in the court that the selection of a new judge until an election can be held in April is imperative. The local bar association is divided on a choice. The governor or being a republican, it is expected he will choose a close friend. Attorney W. Lucas is prominently considered in this connection. He is a classmate of the governor. Several democrats are in the field.

MILWAUKEE DESIRES MUCH LEGISLATION

Over a Dozen Bills Asked for by Milwaukee Council.—Other Proposed Measures.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—Legislation affecting the city of Milwaukee will be unusually heavy at this session of the legislature. The common council of Milwaukee has officially adopted a resolution asking for the passage of no less than a dozen different pieces of legislation. Many of these proposals have to do with a division of the fund now collected by the state in different kinds of taxes, so that the city of Milwaukee will receive a larger portion than it now does. Some Milwaukee legislative proposals which have been reported thus far are:

Election Laws.—A new code of laws relating to the general and spring election is affecting Milwaukee will be proposed by one member.

Automobiles.—That seventy-five per cent of the money derived from license fees under the automobile law be refunded to the treasurers of the several cities, towns and villages.

Inheritance Tax.—A bill is proposed amending the inheritance tax law so that seventy-five per cent of the revenue from that source be refunded by the state treasurer to the treasurers of the cities, villages and towns.

Sanitary Fourths.—Milwaukee common council asks the passage of a law so that the city may appropriate not to exceed $5,000 for the purpose of celebrating the fourth day of July each year.

Peckers and Hawkers' Licenses.—Milwaukee common council asks for a law so that seventy-five per cent of the license fees collected from peddlers and hawkers be retained by the locality and only twenty-five per cent turned over to the state.

Railroad Taxes.—A bill is proposed so that fifty per cent of the taxes collected from the state by the railroads be returned to the treasurers in the different localities. A large sum will come to Milwaukee from this source if this bill be passed.

Cold Storage.—The city attorney of Milwaukee has been directed by the common council to draft a bill to be presented to the legislature regulating the business of cold storage.

Usury Rates.—There is a demand from organizations in Milwaukee for the passage of a usury law, like the New York law, under which the person who is victimized by a loan shark may recover twice the amount of the original loan.

Aid Officer.—Charity organizations in Milwaukee ask for the passage of a law so that large cities may have a civil legal aid officer connected with the city attorney's office.

Industrial Education.—An amendment to the present law to extend the provision that the work be extended for children working under permits from six to eight months; also extending the age limit from sixteen to seventeen years.

Reduced Railroad Fares.—Milwaukee common council asks for the passage of a law giving the citizens of the state a fare not to exceed one cent per mile each way on all railroads in the state on Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Thanksgiving Day, Fourth of July, Wednesday and Thursday of "Wisconsin state fair week."

Tickets for return are to be good six days from date of sale.

Milwaukee county legislation.—A joint resolution will be presented to the legislature creating a committee to be known as the Milwaukee county delegation to whom all bills and resolutions coming from the city government be referred.

Compulsory Celebration.—A resolution has been adopted by Milwaukee common council asking the legislature to pass a law making it compulsory upon cities of the fourth class to provide for some Fourth of July celebrations.

No Fees for Officials.—A bill will be presented providing that all fees of any nature of city and county officials in counties having a population of 250,000 or over be turned into the city of county treasury respectively, and that the salaries paid said officials be for all services rendered.

Compensation for Service.—Milwaukee common council asks for a law so that it may fix the compensation of all classes of city officers, providing, however, that the compensation of no officer shall be increased or diminished during his term of office.

WOULD REQUIRE LIGHTS ON ALL KINDS OF VEHICLES.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Jan. 6.—So many accidents have occurred in the state during the past year as the result of collisions between vehicles that a law is proposed for this session of the legislature compelling the use of one light on every vehicle driven upon the public highways between the hours of sunset and sunrise. Many of these accidents are reported from the farming communities. While a majority of the collisions are between automobiles and horse-drawn carriages, there is a sufficient number between horse-drawn carriages alone to warrant the general application of the law.

The bill that is being drafted provides that the light may be carried either at the rear of the vehicle or on the left side of the seat. A fine of $10 is proposed for each violation of the provisions.

EX-SENATOR JOHN SPOONER REACHES SEVENTIETH BIRTHDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Jan. 6.—John C. Spooner, who has practiced law in this city since he retired from the United States senate several years ago, was remembered by numerous friends and associates on the occasion of his seventieth birthday anniversary today. Mr. Spooner represented Wisconsin in the United States senate for about fifteen years and was recognized as one of the ablest and most influential members of the upper house. When at the height of his career he surprised his friends by resigning his seat in the senate, explaining that the pecuniary rewards of public life were so insignificant that he felt it his duty to retire from office so that he might be better able to provide for the future of his family.

COMMENCE THIRD TRIAL IN SNEED-BOYCE CASE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Memphis, Texas, Jan. 6.—The case of B. E. Epting, charged with complicity in the killing of Al Boyce at Amarillo, September 14 last, was called for trial here today. Boyce met death at the hands of John B. Sneed, with whose wife Boyce had eloped to Canada some months before. The killing of Boyce was preceded on January 13, 1912, by the killing of his father, Captain A. G. Boyce, who was fatally shot in a hotel in Fort Worth by Sneed. The latter, while at liberty on bail, came to Amarillo and killed the younger Boyce. It is alleged that Epting aided Sneed in locating his victim, though Epting maintains that he is innocent of any complicity in the crime. Recently Sneed was acquitted on his second trial at Fort Worth for the killing of Captain Boyce. He is to be tried at Vernon next month for the murder of the younger Boyce.

OFFICIALS OF COUNTY TOOK OFFICES TODAY
MEN ELECTED AT NOVEMBER ELECTIONS BEGAN TWO YEAR TERMS IN OFFICE TODAY.

TWO CHANGES IN LIST
F. F. Livermore succeeds A. M. Church as County Treasurer and Cassius Whipple becomes Sheriff, C. H. Ransom retiring.
Officers-elect to the various offices in the administrative government of Rock county, chosen at the election held in November, today assumed the duties of their office, commencing terms of two years each. Most of the officials in the list are "hold-overs," there being but two changes made. In the office of the county treasurer, F. F. Livermore of Beloit, formerly a supervisor from that city, succeeds A. M. Church of Janesville, and Cassius Whipple of Beloit, takes the place of the retiring sheriff, E. H. Ransom, who today completed a most successful term of two years.
The rest of the county officers: H. W. Lee, county clerk; P. P. Smiley, register of deeds; Jesse Earle, clerk of circuit court; and Stanley G. Dunwiddie, district attorney, continue in office, having been re-elected.
The term of two years in office just completed by E. H. Ransom, as sheriff, has been shown his efficiency as an officer, and his appointment as undersheriff to Mr. Whipple, the new incumbent in that office, further shows that the work of Mr. Ransom has been appreciated by the people of Rock county. During Mr. Ransom's term of office, 1161 prisoners were lodged in the county jail—590 in 1911, and 571 in 1912. Of these committed for criminal offenses, other than drunkenness. Fifteen prisoners were taken to the state's prison at Waupun by the retiring sheriff, and six more committed from the county jail to the Reformatory at Green Bay, or the industrial schools at Waukesha for boys and at Milwaukee for girls. The number of insane patients taken from the county jail to the state hospital at Mendota, was 27. This number, however, includes only those who were lodged in the jail before being taken away, and does not include insane patients from Evansville, Racine, Beloit and other parts of the county, who were not brought to Janesville. In addition a large number of calls from all parts of the county were answered, but no records were kept of such cases. In some instances, the offenders were brought into court, and in others, they were allowed to go on promise of good behavior.

AL. SPOONER DIES FOLLOWING ACCIDENT
Former Janesville Man And Salesman For Burns Battering Company Passes Away Suddenly.
Word was received here this morning of the death of Al Spooner, a former Janesville man, and salesman of the Burns Battering Company at McHenry, Ill., as the result of an accident which he suffered several days ago. Mr. Spooner fell out of a wagon striking upon his head. He was expected to come to Janesville on business with his company last Saturday, but sent a letter dictated to his wife, in which he told of the accident that had befallen him. He thought that he would be sufficiently recovered to come to Janesville by the first of this week. Mr. Spooner passed away at two o'clock this morning, his condition evidently having taken a very sudden turn for the worse.
Mr. Spooner resided in Janesville for several years, being the proprietor of a grocery company. He was also a member of the United Commercial Travelers, having served as president of the local organization. For the last five years he has been a salesman for the Burns Battering Company and lived with his family at McHenry. He made frequent trips to Janesville and had a wide acquaintance here. Mr. Spooner was about forty-eight years old and leaves to mourn his loss a wife and two daughters. His body will be taken to Whitewater for burial and funeral services will be held there Wednesday afternoon.

DR. JAMES GIBSON STRICKEN BY DEATH
Prominent Physician and Surgeon Passed Away This Afternoon.
Dr. Jas. Gibson, a prominent physician and surgeon of this city, died at two o'clock this afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. E. G. Lowry, 213 Washington street, the cause of his death being dilation of the heart. He had been confined to the house for the last three weeks. A specialist, Dr. W. E. Quine of Chicago, was called here Sunday in consultation with his attending physician, Dr. Judd, but nothing could be done to arrest the progress of the disease.
Dr. Gibson was born a short distance north of this city on the Milton road fifty-two years ago. His father, William Gibson, died in 1905, and his mother passed away three years ago. Dr. Gibson was never married. He had engaged in the practice of medicine in Janesville for twenty-eight years and stood high in his profession as a public spirited citizen. The news of his death, though not unexpected, brings grief to a large number of Janesville people.
Surviving him are a brother, Andrew R. Gibson of this city, and four sisters: Mrs. Clark Popple, Mrs. Frank Madden, Mrs. E. G. Lowry and Mrs. Albert Belleback of Greenwood, Clark county. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

THINKING WOMEN

A New Way to Make People Honest.

It seems to me, the business man was saying, "that moral suasion is a factor in making people honest is a failure. The world has been trying to persuade people to be honest, through hope, or fear of punishment, ever since the first century A. D. But I have an idea, the proportion of dishonest people then and now is about the same. I think the absolute necessity of being honest in order to live now, would have more effect in increasing honesty than the promise of some heavenly reward hereafter. Dishonest people are rather cynical about the hereafter. They are sure of the Now, and they'll take a chance on the Then."

"But how can you make people honest by necessity?" asked his friend. "By cutting off present supplies. I am not speaking of the man or woman who gets into difficulties temporarily and can't pay his bills; but of the one who is by nature dishonest, who deliberately plans to cheat others out of their due, who thinks it smart not to pay bills."

"You'll have to lie awake nights, I guess, to get ahead of him. Cheating is his business."

"No. It could be done by quite a simple process, if everybody would co-operate. As it is now, the honest people pay the bills of the dishonest. For instance, if Jones doesn't pay his bill at the dry goods store, you pay it for him."

"Like heck I do," responded his friend. "Whether you realize it or not. Do you suppose the loss from unpaid bills comes out of the pockets of the big merchants? Not a bit of it. They know about the percentage of loss they will have in a year, and they add just that percentage to the cost of their merchandise. And so you pay Jones' bill. And the same thing holds good in varying degrees all through business. The honest pay the way of the dishonest."

"Well, maybe that is so," said the other reflectively. "But how can it be helped?"

"If everybody would do as some merchants are beginning to do, require a deposit first, and then give credit up to the amount of deposit, it would be a big step toward compelling the dishonest to be honest. You see, they couldn't get a thing until they showed the color of their money. Their supplies would be cut off. And since you pay your bill at the end of the month, why not pay it at the beginning of the month, and by so doing not help pay Jones' bill? This method would be no hardship to honest people. In fact, it is to their advantage. But it would really compel the dishonest to be honest, if they wanted to buy anything. And maybe, after they had acted on the square a while, and got a taste of honesty and respectability, they'd like it so much they'd keep on of their own accord."

"It does seem a sensible idea," admitted the other. "But because it's new and different, if it were proposed, there would be a lot of people who would kick and grumble and hold back. That's the queer kink in human nature. Anything that is progressive always has to make a fight to get accepted; even when it is as plain as the nose on your face that it is a good thing."

Chocolate.

Material—Two squares' chocolate, one pint of hot water, one pint milk, three teaspoons sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, whipped cream or marshmallows.

Utensils—Double boiler, tablespoon, measuring cup, egg beater, teaspoon. Directions—Put the squares of chocolate into the double boiler over the fire and melt. Add the boiling water and let cook five minutes or longer. Add the sugar and let cook again, beating well with the egg beater. Remove from the fire, add the vanilla and pour into heated cups with whipped cream or a marshmallow. Iced cocoa is nice. Prepare according to a recipe previously given in the Gazette, but a little stronger and cool. Serve with shaved ice and whipped cream.

Coffee.

Materials—Four teaspoons coffee, one teaspoon whites of eggs, one-fourth cup cold water, three cups boiling water.

Utensils—Enamelled coffee pot or percolator, tablespoon, measuring cup.

Directions—Coffee is made in two ways: Either in a percolator with no white of egg or in a coffee pot where egg must be used to settle the coffee; and still another way, when made in large quantities, put the coffee in cheesecloth bags and start with cold water, bringing slowly to the boiling point, then moving back for two or three minutes where it cannot boil as boiled coffee is spoiled coffee. Buy good coffee, but that does not always mean the highest priced. Every one does not like the same blend or brand of coffee, as it may be a light or a heavy blend.

A clean coffee pot is an absolute essential. Once a week whether percolator or pot is used, put in a teaspoonful of baking soda to a quart of water and boil ten minutes; wash well and it will be sweet and clean. When ready to make coffee, grind just what is needed, scald the pot and add the coffee, egg and cold water as given. Shake well together and pour over one cup of freshly boiled water and bring only to the boiling point. Add the remaining two cups of boiling water, set back on the stove and settle with a little cold water and when ready to serve it should be bright and sparkling as it is.

There are many occasions where cocoa, chocolate or coffee is in much better taste than a cold drink, but only when it is perfectly made. It is not difficult to make a good cup of chocolate if it is not made in too big a hurry and the chocolate is well cooked; be sure and serve hot as it is.

CHICKEN SOUPS.

The flavor of chicken will make almost any combination of soups and vegetables appetizing.

Spanish Chicken Soup.—Reheat three cupsful each of veal and chicken stock. Add the grated onion, a finely minced carrot and two stalks of celery chopped very fine. Add one cupful of barley. Simmer until the barley is done; season to taste and serve. If liked very nice, rub through a sieve before serving.

Chicken With Tapioca.—Heat three quarts of chicken stock and drop into it a half cup of tapioca. Boil slowly for half an hour. Sago may be used in place of tapioca.

Chicken Soup With Rice.—Cut up a roast chicken, scrape the meat from the bones and chop fine. Fry in butter, add two quarts of chicken stock, three pints of water, two tablespoonfuls of rice, a chopped onion, a tablespoonful of minced parsley, a pinch of ground cloves and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer forty-five minutes, skim and serve.

Chicken Soup à la Maitre.—Reheat three quarts of chicken stock and thicken with four tablespoonfuls of flour, browned in butter and blended with a little cold stock. Add one-half cup of blanched almonds chopped fine, two hard cooked eggs coarsely chopped and one cup of cooked chicken, also chopped. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. Add a tablespoonful of Italian tomato paste, and serve.

German Chicken Soup.—Reheat three quarts of chicken stock, thicken with the yolks of six eggs, beaten smooth with a cupful of cream and the juice of a lemon. Season with salt, pepper and grated nutmeg. Serve very hot with croutons.

It was little Billy's first visit to the country, and he never had eaten corn on the cob before.

"Papa," he said drawing a long breath, wiping his mouth with his napkin, and handing the cob back to his father, "please put some more beans on this stick an' let me have it again."

DIET AND HEALTH
HINTSBy DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food SpecialistCHILDREN AND FOOD VARIETY

"The proper way to learn to like any new food is to take a small amount at once, and decide beforehand that you are going to like it. They do wrong who carefully train themselves to like a very few things. They cut themselves off from many of the delights of the table, and make it doubly hard for the person who has to prepare their meals. It is the duty of every mother to see that her children like every variety of food, and the way she presents a new dish to them will very often determine their future like or dislike of it." The above quoted advice from the announcement of a dealer in olive oil is both good and bad. It is sometimes necessary to learn to like a certain food, and the advice given in regard to that is very good. But it is a mistake, sometimes serious in its ultimate consequences, to induce children to eat a great variety of food. And it certainly does not make it easier for the person who has to prepare the meals to have several children demanding different kinds of food, instead of liking what is best for them. Many who need olive oil do not like it, and the suggestion given for learning to take it is good, as far as it goes. But any child will be the better for being allowed to exercise its natural tendency to choose a few foods and live on those alone. Most normal children naturally prefer to make a meal on one article of food. The cultivation of a various, capricious appetite adds nothing to the pleasures of living.

DIFFERENT WAYS OF HELPING FOLKS.

THERE are different modes of obligation and different avenues to our gratitude and favor. A man may lend his countenance who will not part with his money and open his mind to us who will not draw out his purse. How many ways are there in which our peace may be assisted besides actual want! How many comforts do we stand in need of besides meat and drink and clothing!—Hazlitt.

All the help and service that is given to others in this world is not given wittingly and deliberately.

Many people confer benefits on those about them in ways they know not of.

Whoever creates a beautiful thing of any sort, even though he creates it primarily for his own satisfaction, gives pleasure to others, and since pleasure is what we all seek so eagerly, is not that after all as valuable a gift as money or food or drink?

Some years ago I was sent to interview a woman who was running for the school board. I was ushered into her living-room to wait for her. That room made an impression on me that I shall never forget. It was a room into the furnishing of which had evidently gone infinite care and thought and taste. There was an all pervasive sense of harmony and beauty about it which not even the most casual visitor could miss. It seems to me that the woman who created that room, by so doing, conferred as real a benefit upon all who enter it as if she gave them some tangible gift. For myself at least, I know that even now I still think of that room with a sense of pleasure. Moreover, it gave me higher ideals of taste and beauty than I had ever had before. Were not these as splendid benefits as any more concrete services she could have rendered me?

It is sometimes considered frivolous for women to cultivate their natural beauty and enhance it by becoming clothes. To my mind the woman who does this is doing a good work, if she does not concentrate on it to the exclusion of higher duties, because she is conferring a benefit on mankind. And mind you, I mean mankind to include womankind. I know that I have often wished to tell a pretty woman in a pretty gown how much I enjoyed looking at her, and I have heard other women express the same un-catchy appreciation of their sisters' beauty.

Nor is the creation or cultivation of beauty the only way in which we unconsciously benefit our neighbors. A strong, serene personality is a continual source of strength and peace to all who come into contact with it. A well ordered home where peace and serenity reign is a blessing to all who come into it. In a thousand such ways we may unconsciously bless and benefit others.

Indeed, if we make our own lives as fine and strong and beautiful as we know how, we cannot help helping others.

HEART and HOME
PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH
THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1)—What is a remedy for faded hair? (2)—What will prevent the hair from falling out and turning gray? (3)—What will prevent feet from perspiring? (4)—Please give me a good cream puff recipe.

FLORA.

(1) Make a strong tea of sage. Add to it a little alcohol to preserve it and keep it in a cool place. After giving your hair an egg shampoo, apply the sage tea and brush it well into the hair. It will darken the hair slightly and the brushing will brighten it. Keep the hair clean and brush it well every day. Apply the sage tea every other day. (2)—Rub a little vaseline into the roots. (3)—Rub them with alcohol after bathing each day.

(4) Cream Puff recipe: One cup hot water, 2 cups sugar; boil together and while boiling stir in 1 cup dry flour. Take from fire and stir to paste. After this cools, stir in 3 unbeaten eggs. Stir 5 minutes. Drop by tablespoon on buttered tins, bake in quick oven about 25 minutes, not opening oven door more often than is necessary or allowing puffs to touch each other. This makes 12 puffs.

Cream for filling: One cup milk, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, vanilla to flavor. Stir cornstarch in a little milk and put into beaten eggs. Put all together in boiling milk and stir till it all thickens. When puffs are cold make incision and fill with this cream.

(2) Yes. (3) Anywhere from three months to a year, according to the circumstances.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) Is it proper for a couple to be engaged two or three years before they marry? That is, if they still love each other. I have been told that people will talk. (2) Could you give me any exercise that will make the head larger? My body is too large for my head.

SMALLHEAD.

(1) People have an idea that if a man loves a girl very much he will not permit a long engagement. (2) You do not say whether you are a man or woman. A woman may do her hair to make her head look larger. A man may let his hair grow long and wash it often to keep it fluffy and so add to the size of the head. Rub a little vaseline into the scalp about every other night and wash it out the next morning; this will help to preserve and fluff the hair.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Should a girl of fifteen keep steady company? (2)—Is it proper for a crowd of girls to go with their company to another city, some miles distant, to a theater, without a chaperone? (3)—Should a girl correspond with a boy with her mother's consent when the boy has not been introduced except by himself? (4)—Should a boy kiss a girl before leaving? Or you blame a girl for not kissing a boy even if he asked her to? (5)—Is it proper to call at a boy's home at the invitation of him and his mother?

VIOLET AND ROSE.

(1)—My dears, a girl of 15 is just a girl, and she has no business doing anything so grown up as keeping steady company. (2)—Take a chapter with you. (3)—If the mother is satisfied that he is a good boy and if you are willing to show her all his and your letters I see no harm in it. (4)—The girl would be very sensible not to kiss him. (5)—If the mother sends an invitation for any special call or entertainment she may go, but she should not take advantage of this to call any time she feels like it.

SUFFRAGISTS FIND
TEAS HELP CAUSE

Dr. Anna Blount.

The argument, so often brought forth by anti-suffragists, that woman's suffrage is bound to make women masculine, has just received a severe blow at the hands of Dr. Anna Blount, a prominent Chicago suffragist. Dr. Blount, on carefully looking the matter over, found that the afternoon tea, the most feminine of all social affairs, is the best means of extending suffrage/educational work. So a series of teas has been arranged for every Friday afternoon in the Chicago suffragists' headquarters, to which all who are interested in the cause, actively or casually, are invited.

Things Worth Knowing.

Practical aid for sewing machine.—Take brass shoe-nails and with tape-line measure off on the front top edge of sewing machine, from the right of center, one foot with the nails, then divide this to six inches, and again one of the six-inch spaces into one-inch spaces; three feet may be measured from right toward left. The brass-headed tacks will scarcely show and will save many a hunt for the tape-line.

To prevent picking fingers.—Every woman who does embroidery, quilting or sewing knows how impossible it is to do much work without picking the forefinger, frequently until it bleeds. Before beginning work, cut a piece of ordinary court-plaster about the size of a finger that gets pricked. It is a perfect protection, is easily removed, doesn't destroy the delicate sense of touch as does a rubber cot and isn't cumbersome like a celluloid shield. During one year's continual use I have found it absolutely satisfactory.

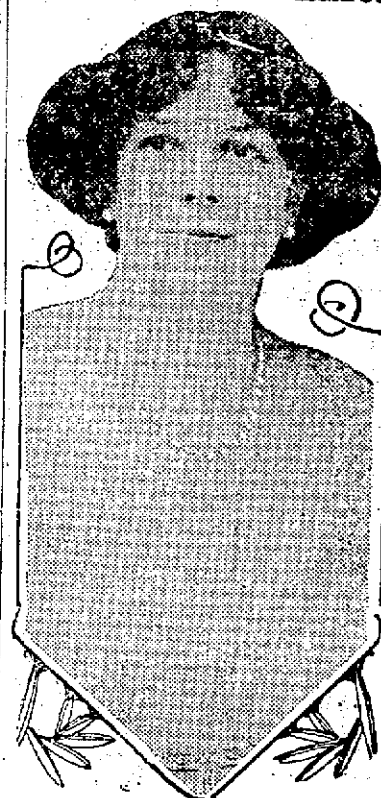

To make flower-pots look like new.—The English housewife moistens red ochre with water till it is of the consistency of ordinary paint and applies with a paint-brush to her flower-pots. The effect is pleasing and the cost is very slight, ochre being only three cents a pound.

To separate honey from the comb.

—To obtain strained honey, separating the honey from the wax as it comes to us in the frame, place the frame in a bowl in the oven, just warm enough to melt the honey and wax; then remove the frame and let the honey stand until cold, when the wax may be skimmed off the top without any trouble.

When cleaning spots.—Take the garment that is to be cleaned, and if there are spots on it, run a thread around them so as to be able to find them easily after the garment is wet and the spots not apparent.

NEW TREASURER IS INSTALLED IN OFFICE

A. M. Church Ends His Four Year Term And Is Succeeded by F. F. Livermore.

Rock county's expenses for the year 1912 have been $379,486.31 and the receipts total $418,421.25 which leaves a balance on hand at the beginning of the year of $38,934.94, according to the annual report of County Treasurer A. M. Church which has just been compiled and which will be presented at the coming meeting of the county board.

Mr. Church today surrendered his office which he has held for the past four years to Frank F. Livermore, of Beloit who was elected to the office of county treasurer at the last election. During Mr. Church's two terms the county accounts have been kept with the utmost accuracy and care and have always been found in the best condition by the county auditing committee.

Some of the items of receipts and expenditures during the past year will be of interest at this time. The largest figure on the debit side during the year is, of course, the tax levy which amounted to $253,383.14. The other items are largely fees and license money from various sources as follows: Clerk of the circuit court fees, $860.30; Janesville municipal court fees, $155.57; borrowed, $9,000; abstract fees, $824.17; register of deeds fees, $3,338.71; interest on county deposits, $1,916.55; saloon licenses, $4,525.00; inheritance tax, $6,102.42 (all but seven and one-half percent of this item was paid into the state treasury); marriage license fees, $280; five percent of the delinquent tax, $362.55; township aid for state and county highways, $10,631.95; state aid for state and county highways, $11,894.03; motor vehicle tax received from state, $3,130.64; fines and penalties, $7,574.71. The latter item was much larger than usual owing to a very large payment made from the Beloit municipal court during the year. The amount included a total for a number of years past which had been held up on a technicality.

Among the expenditures the more important items follow: State tax, $107,992.40; county loans paid, $12,500; state school money to tax collectors, $44,367.44; building of state, county and township highways, $30,849.12; salaries of county officers, $27,663.27; fire and tornado insurance, $3,210.08; training school orders, $4,822.86; county asylum orders, $26,599.76; circuit court jurors, $3,167.46; county poor commissioners (Anderson and Seegmiller), $6,350; H. W. Lee, county purchasing agent, $6,138.94; E. H. Hanson, board of prisoners, $3,200; appropriation for bridges, $3,757.07; building committee, $2,530; soldiers' relief orders, $7,792. The minor items on both sides are omitted but the principal sources of income and outgo are given.

LAWS OF UNIVERSE CONSTANT AS STARS

MOST IMPORTANT PART OF LIFE
NOT RESULT OF CHANCE
NOR ACCIDENT.

FUTURE NOT MYSTERY

The Rev. Dr. David Beaton Preaches
Sermon on "Three Assured Things in Life."

"You will get out of life what you give—no more, no less."

"You will become what you do."

"You will do what you think."

These are "Three Assured Things in Life," according to the Rev. Dr. Beaton, pastor of the First Congregational church, who delivered a sermon on that subject yesterday morning. The Rev. Beaton took as his text, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked. Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap."

"There is no such thing as a division between time and eternity," said the pastor in opening his address. "We are all in eternity now. Time is merely eternity as it proceeds. The conception of time as being a thing apart is merely a concession to our limited comprehension, our inability to conceive of time immeasurable and without end."

"All of us are impressed with the mystery of the future and spend much time in speculation of what it will bring forth. We look to the future because in that direction lies our hopes and our uncertainties, and because we want to be happy and enjoy life. Religion is good because it teaches us the best way to enjoy life. 'There is no objection to the desire to enjoy life; it is right and proper and natural. It is especially a natural desire for young people, and if young people do not have such a desire we conclude that they are abnormal, that there is something wrong with them.'

"In a certain sense there is no mystery about life or the quest of happiness, no uncertainty about its harvest of success or failure. You will get out of life what you give—no more, no less. 'Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap.'

"A lot of people insist upon putting magic into their religion, as if God were a God of chance and not a God of law. Every farmer, every scientific observer, understands the law of sowing and reaping as applied to earth's harvest. We should know that if we sow the wind we will reap the whirlwind, and if we sow righteousness we shall harvest peace and happiness."

"It is sometimes said that foresight is better than hindsight. I question its truth. The past should be our most valuable teacher, and from its experience we can deduce the laws that, obeyed, insure success and happiness."

One of the greatest teachers of the early part of the last century was Lecky, a man sometimes assailed as a skeptic, and a foe of the church. Living in the age that he did, an age of inquiry and doubt, it would not be strange if he were a skeptic, but this very man's work re-affirms and re-emphasizes the teachings of scripture. The bible says, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he reap." Lecky's investigations all went to show that given certain conditions you will reach certain definite, unvarying results.

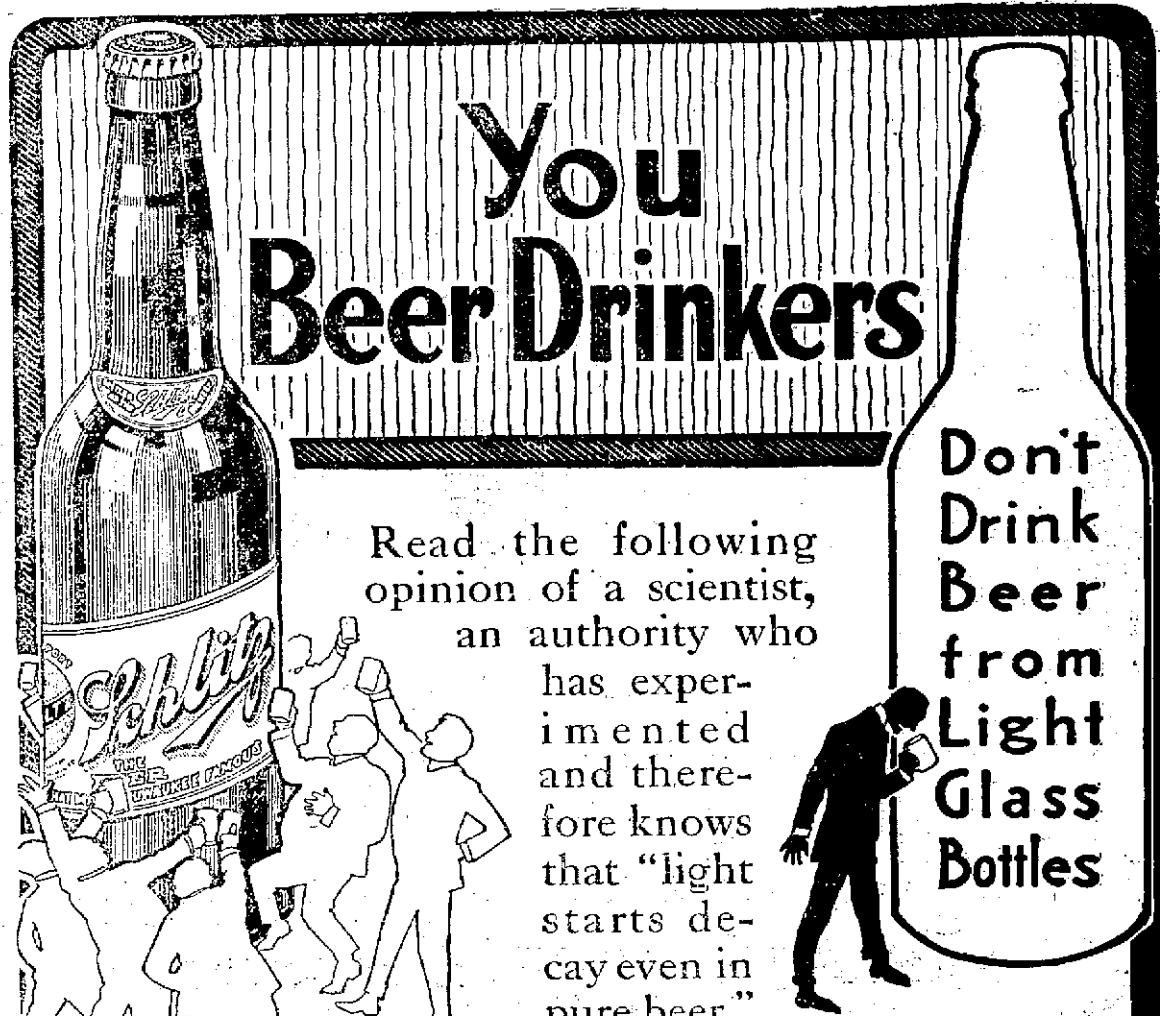

"One of the most skeptical and unbelieving words in the language is the word, 'chance.' Laws, it is true, have certain individual variations that are hard to understand, but if our observations extend over a period of any length we will find that certain seeds are sown, whether they be of evil or of good, and that the harvest will not only be like the seed, but it will show increase."

"Things do not happen; they grow. If you sow sobriety, persistence, virtue, and right dealing you will reap a character. If the girls of the city attend the night school and learn cooking there will be happy homes and fewer divorces, for poor cooking has broken up more than one home. If a man spends his time hanging around the saloons he will lose his job. If you attend midnight dances and expose yourself to the cold you will catch cold. There is no uncertainty about these things or any other situations that might be taken as illustrations. The harvest of life is not an accident."

"You will become what you do. The virtues of industry, application, and careful thought, it is true, have their outward reward of success; but there is also a reward within, a harvest of personality and of character. If asked 'What a man is worth,' you will reply, so far so many dollars. A more important question about him is what is he? Consider the life of Paul, spending his life in the service of his Master, only to die in a dungeon; Dr. Reed, who discovered the germ of yellow fever, only to lose his life. In their cases it does not seem as if the law of life was true, but it surely is. They asked for no pity and knew no failure; they died 'heroes' deaths and received a crown of victory."

"You will do what you think. This statement is often given an absurd interpretation as if the mere taking of thought, mere groundless self-confidence, were sufficient to qualify one for doing a task that requires experience and training. It is not in that sense that we are to take the words, but we are to believe in thought as an inspiration to action and as a moulder of character. As the main-spring of our action we must hold to the belief in the fundamental truths, the fundamental laws."

"Why do we so often re-affirm our belief in Jesus Christ? It is because that faith is the moving and sustaining force for righteousness; the life and in that to come. Through him and by following His teachings we can rise to the sublime heights of character, attain the greatest measure of service, realize the greatest happiness, and win the crown of victory."

You Beer Drinkers

Read the following opinion of a scientist, an authority who has experimented and therefore knows that "light starts decay even in pure beer."

"We have tested beers repeatedly, placing the bottles in the direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable on account of the peculiar odor developed. The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are, therefore, recommendable."

We have adopted every invention, every innovation, every idea that could make for purity.

"About thirty; we must have killed five or six. It was hardly more than daylight when they left, and I could not tell just how many bodies they strapped on the ponies. They were a mixed bunch of young bucks, principally Arapahoes, led by Roman Nose."

"Went west, hey?"
"Yes, sir."
The lieutenant turned his gaze up the river, and then looked at Wasson, who remained seated in the saddle.
"Must be the same lot Maxwell told us about up on Pawnee Fork, Sam," he said at last. "He will be likely to cut their trail some time today. We knew a bunch had headed south, but didn't suppose they had got as far as this already. Better leave Maxwell to run them in, I suppose? Our orders are to return to Dodge."

"They haven't three hours the start," ventured Hamlin in surprise, "and cannot travel fast with so many of their ponies doubly loaded."

"That is for me to decide," staring insolently, "and I understand my duty without any advice. Is there any damage done west of here?"

"The station at the crossing is burned; two dead men there; I don't know what became of the third."

"Then it is just as I thought; those fellows will turn north before they get that far, and will run straight into Maxwell. What do you say, Sam?"

The scout lolled carelessly in the saddle, his eyes on the river, his lean, brown face expressionless.

"I reckon as how it don't make no great difference what I say," he answered soberly. "Yer ain't taken no advice from me yet, fur as I remember. But if yer really want ter know, this time, my notion is them bucks will most likely hide in the bluffs till night, an' then sneak past Maxwell after it gets good an' dark. If this yere was my outfit now, I'd just naturally light on to the trail fast, orders or no orders. I reckon it's injuns we cum out after, an' I don't suppose the war department would find any fault if we found a few."

The blood surged into the lieutenant's face, but opposition only served to increase his obstinacy.

"I prefer to rely on my own judgment," he said tartly. "From what this man reports they are in stronger force than we are. Besides my instructions were not to provoke hostilities."

Wasson grinned, revealing his yellow teeth.

"Sure not; they are so damned peaceable themselves."

"I prefer leaving Captain Maxwell to deal with the situation," Gaskins went on pompously, ignoring the sneer, "as he outranks me, and I am under strict instructions to return at once to the fort. Two of our horses are disabled already, and Smiley is too sick to be left alone. I'll not risk it. Well," he broke off suddenly, and addressing a corporal who had just ridden up and saluted, "have you buried the bodies?"

"Yes, sir; found these papers on them."

The lieutenant thrust these into his jacket pocket.

"Very well, Hough. Form the men into column. Miss McDonald, you will retain the horse you have, and I should be very glad to have you ride with me. Oh, corporal, was everything in the coach destroyed? Nothing saved belonging to this lady?"

"Only the ironwork is left, sir."

"So I thought; exceedingly sorry, Miss McDonald. The ladies at Dodge will fit you out when we get in. I am a bachelor, you know," he added, glancing aside into her face, "but can promise every attention."

Her eyes sought Hamlin where he stood straight and motionless, respectfully waiting an opportunity to speak.

"Is—is this what I ought to do?" she questioned, leaning toward him. "I am so confused I hardly know what is best."

"Why, of course," broke in the lieutenant hastily. "You may trust me to advise."

"But my question was addressed to Sergeant Hamlin," she interposed, never glancing aside. "He understands the situation better than you."

The sergeant held his hat in his hand, his eyes meeting her own frankly.

"Yes," her eyes still upon the sergeant's uncovered face, "I am coming. Don't imagine I shall ever forget," she murmured hastily, "or that I will not be glad to meet you anywhere."

"Some time I may put you to the test," he answered soberly. "If any trouble comes, trust Wasson—he is a real man."

He stood there, one arm thrown over the neck of the horse, watching them ride away up the trail. The lieutenant and the girl were together at the rear of the short column, and he seemed to be talking earnestly. Hamlin never moved, or took his eyes from her until they disappeared over the ridge. Just as they dipped down out of sight she turned and waved one hand. Then the man's gaze swept over the debris of the burned stage, and the two mounds of earth. Even these mute evidences of tragedy scarcely sufficed to make him realize all that had occurred in this lonely spot. He could not seem to separate his thought from the cavalcade which had just departed, leaving behind the memory of that farewell wave of the hand. To him it marked the end of a dream, the return to a life distasteful and lonely.

Mechanically the sergeant loaded his rifle, and strapped the old Confederate haversack to his saddle pommel, staring again, half unbelieving, at the faded inscription underneath the flap. Yet the sight of those letters awoke him, bringing to his bronzed face a new look of determination. He swung into the saddle, and, rifle across his knees, his eyes studying the desolate distance, rode westward along the deserted trail.

CHAPTER XIII.

Back at Fort Dodge.

The swiftly speeding weeks of that war-summer on the plains had brought many changes to the hard-worked troops engaged in the campaign or garrisoning the widely scattered posts south of the Platte. Scout details, although constantly in the saddle, failed to prevent continued Indian depredations on exposed settlements. Stage routes were deserted, and the tolling wagons of the freighters vanished from the trails. Reports of outrages were continuous, and it became more and more evident that the various tribes were at length united in a desperate effort to halt the white advance. War parties broke through the wide-strung lines of guard, and got safely away again, leaving behind death and destruction. Only occasionally did these Indian raiders and the pursuing troops come into actual contact. The former came and went in swift forays, now appearing on the Pawnee, again on the Saline, followed by a wild ride down the valley of the Arkansas. Scattered in small bands, well mounted and armed, no one could guess where the next attack might occur. Every day brought its fresh report of horror. From north and south, east and west, news of outrages came into Sheridan's headquarters at Fort Wallace.

Denver, at the base of the mountains, was practically in state of siege, provisioned only by wagon trains sent through under strong guard; the fringe of settlement along the water ways was deserted, men and women fleeing to the nearest government posts for protection and food. The troops, few in number and widely scattered in small detachments, many being utilized as scouts and guards, were unequal to the gigantic task of protecting so wide a frontier. Skirmishes were frequent, but the Indians were wary and resourceful, and only once during the entire summer were they brought into real decisive battle.

The last of August, Major Forsythe, temporarily commanding a company of volunteer scouts, was suddenly attacked by over a thousand warriors under command of Roman Nose.

A four days' fight resulted, with heavy loss on both sides, the Indians being driven from the field by the opportune arrival of fresh troops.

The general condition of affairs is well shown by the reports reaching Fort Wallace in September. Governor Hunt wrote from Denver: "Just returned. Fearful condition of things here. Nine persons murdered by Indians yesterday, within radius of nine miles." A few days later, acting Governor Hall reported: "The Indians have again attacked our settlements in strong force, obtaining possession of the country to within twelve miles of Denver. They are more bold, fierce, and desperate in their assaults than ever before. It is impossible to drive them out and protect the families at the same time, for they are better armed, mounted, disciplined, and better officered than our men. Each hour brings intelligence of fresh barbarities, and more extensive robberies." This same month Governor Crawford, of Kansas, telegraphed: "Have just received a dispatch from Hays, stating that Indians attacked, captured, and burned a train at Pawnee Fork; killed, scalped, and burned sixteen men; also attacked another train at Cimarron Crossing, which was defended until ammunition was exhausted, when the men abandoned the train, saving what stock they could. Similar attacks are of almost daily occurrence."

South of the Cimarron all was desolation, and war raged unchecked from the Platte to the Pecos. Sheridan determined upon a winter campaign, although he understood well the sufferings entailed upon the troops by exposure on the open plains at that season. Yet he knew the habits of the Indians; that they would expect immunity from attack and would gather in villages, subject to surprise. He, therefore, decided that the result would justify the necessary hardships involved. To this end smaller posts were abandoned, and the widely scattered soldiers ordered to central points in preparation for the contemplated movement. Devere had been deserted earlier, and Major McDonald had marched his men to Dodge, where Molly awaited his coming. Retained there on garrison duty, the two occupied a one-story, yellow stone structure fronting the parade ground. In October, orders to march reached "M" troop, Seventh Cavalry, at Fort Union, and the ragged, bronzed troopers, who all summer long had been scouting the New Mexican plains, turned their horses' heads to the northeast in hopefulness of action. With them up the deserted Santa Fe trail, past burned stations and wrecks of wagon trains, rode Sergeant Hamlin, silent and efficient, the old Confederate haversack fastened to his saddle, and his mind, in spite of all effort, recurring constantly to the girl who had gone to Dodge early in the summer. Was she still there? If so, how would she greet him now after these months of absence? The little cavalry column, dust-covered and weary, seemed fairly to creep along, as day by day he reviewed every word, every glance, which had passed between them; and at night, under the stars, he lay with head on his saddle, endeavoring to determine his course of action, both as to their possible meeting, and with regard to the following of the clue offered by the haversack. The time he had hoped for was at hand, but he could not decide the best course of action. He could only wait, and permit Fate to interfere.

Certain facts were, however, sufficiently clear, and the Sergeant faced them manfully. Not merely the fact that he was in the ranks, great as that handicap was, could have prevented an attempt at retaining the friendship of Molly McDonald. But he was in the ranks because of disgrace—hiding away from his own people, keeping aloof from his proper station in life, out of bitter shame. If he had felt thus before, he now felt it a thousand times more acutely in memory of the comradeship of her whose words had brought him a new gleam of hope. Never before had loneliness seemed so complete, and never before had he realized how wide was the chasm between the old and the new life. This constantly recurring memory embittered him, and made him restless. Yet out of it all, there grew a firmer determination to win back his old position in the world, to stamp out the lie through which the Confederate court-martial had condemned him. If Le Fevre were alive, he meant now to find him, face him, and compel him to speak the truth. The discovery of that haversack gave a point from which to start, and his mind centered there with a fixed purpose which obscured all else.

BRONCHITIS SUFFERER
Takes Druggists' Advice With Splendid Result.

If any one should know the worth of a medicine, it is the retail druggist who sells it over his counter every day in the week, and is in a position to know what remedy gives the best satisfaction.

Mrs. Frank H. Uline, of West Sand Lake, N. Y., says: "For a number of years I was a great sufferer from bronchitis. Last July I had an attack which was more severe than any and my friends thought I could not recover from it. Then I was advised by my druggist to try Vinol, which I did with wonderful results. My cough has left me, I have gained in weight and appetite and I am as strong as ever I was. I advise all who have bronchitis, chronic coughs, or who are run-down to try Vinol."

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver, without oil, aided by the blood-making, and strength-creating properties of tonic iron that makes Vinol so efficient in such cases.

Remember, we guarantee Vinol to do just what we say—we pay back your money if it does not. South Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

Oh, Woodrow, your future is dark! Of comfort I don't see a spark; for every old skate will be telling you straight just how you should govern your ark. They'll tell you to steer to the right, and you'll run on the rocks in the night; and the mermaid will wait as she kicks up her tail, at seeing so sorry a plight. They'll tell you to steer to the left, and you'll feel all the fury and heat of the tempest and gale on your mast and your sail, and the midnight will find you bereft. They'll tell you to rack and to slew, with your binnacle, and to yaw and to heave in the mariner's way, and damn you whatever you do. Your ship will have too many mates; sea lawyers and eloquent skates; and the husky A. B.'s will do just as they please till the boat is in desperate straits. You're gentle and honest and kind, possessed of studious mind; oh, what can you do with a hell-roaring crew intent on the bacon and rind? The man who'd conduct such a ship, and give it a prosperous trip, should have by his helm a club of red elm and likewise a shotgun and whip. He should be as quick as a cat, to light at the drop of the hat, with a thick, heavy belt and a knife in his belt, and a buzz-saw concealed in his hat.

THE DAILY NOVELETTE

"How lovely are her under lips! How sweet her coral hair! Her teeth in truth like pearly chips! Alas, they're false! Beware!"

Stumbling blindly, he turned his agonized face to the beautiful girl behind him.

"I can't stand it any longer!" he groaned. "This is killing me."

"Me, too," she replied, choosing her words carefully. She was dressed in a pink chinchilla, with a dash of sapphire caught up with foulard.

The leaden way was turning into night, yet they stumbled on, on, on, on, on. (See footnote.)

"This is killing me!" he repeated.

His vocabulary seemed limited.

"The worst of it is," she panted, "we don't seem to get anywhere."

Her hat was a gray velour, surmounted by a pea green aigrette, with just a suspicion of ruching.

A shooting star fell noiselessly in the distance, but it continued to grow dark. Yet they stumbled on, on, on, on, on. (See footnote.)

"How long?
